Project Angel Heart Welcomes Four to Board of Directors

Denver, Colo. (August 1, 2017) – Project Angel Heart’s board of directors has elected four new members: Jeff R. Bontrager, Colorado Health Institute; Sandi Chapman, CoBiz Wealth; Ann C. McCullough, Posinelli, PC; and Kevin Riddleberger, Dispatch Health.

Jeff R. Bontrager is the director of research on coverage & access at the Colorado Health Institute, where he coordinates research efforts relating to health insurance, the health care safety net, and the uninsured. He brings 18 years of research experience and serves on Project Angel Heart’s research advisory committee.

Sandi Chapman is a senior vice president and senior portfolio manager at CoBiz Wealth. For the last 24 years, she has provided comprehensive investment advice and planning to help her clients achieve their financial goals. She is also an active member of the CFA Society of Colorado.

Ann C. McCullough is a shareholder at Polsinelli, PC. She has over 25 years of health law experience, representing hospitals, health care systems, and other providers relating to health care operations, transactions, and regulatory compliance.

Kevin Riddleberger is the chief strategy officer and co-founder of Dispatch Health, which provides mobile, on-demand health care. He holds his MBA with a concentration in health care administration from the University of Colorado at Denver and has been a board certified physician assistant for more than a decade. He also serves on Project Angel Heart’s Meals for Care Transitions committee.

About Project Angel Heart

Project Angel Heart prepares and delivers medically tailored meals, at no cost, to improve health and quality of life for neighbors living with cancer, kidney disease, HIV/AIDS, and other life-threatening illnesses.
