For Immediate Release

Two Appointed to Colorado Springs Regional Council

Colorado Springs, Colo. (August 1, 2017) – Project Angel Heart has appointed Chris Zwirlein and Gary Morse to its Colorado Springs Regional Council.

Gary Morse served as director of behavioral health and medical rehabilitation and VP of human resources during his 25 years of service with Penrose-St. Francis Health Services. He retired in 2016 after serving as CEO of Sangre de Cristo Hospice in Pueblo, and continues to support leaders as a state-certified executive coach. Gary's board memberships include the Care Coalition, the Clean Air Campaign, the Independence Center, the Resource Exchange, and the state Brain Injury Alliance. He is also a volunteer meal delivery driver for Project Angel Heart.

Chris Zwirlein retired as a senior workforce development specialist after a 27-year career with Colorado Springs Utilities. Chris is a long-time volunteer coordinator for the Pikes Peak Challenge, a fundraiser for the Brain Injury Alliance of Colorado, and a volunteer meal delivery driver for Project Angel Heart.

About Project Angel Heart

Project Angel Heart prepares and delivers medically tailored meals, at no cost, to improve health and quality of life for neighbors living with cancer, kidney disease, HIV/AIDS, and other life-threatening illnesses. In 2017, the agency will deliver meals to more than 2,900 critically ill Coloradans, including an estimated 580 in Colorado Springs.
